Acknowledgements

Publishing an edited volume is an attempt at gathering the latest research on a specific topic. However, developing ideas for a book actually starts years before the outlines of the publication are specified and prospective authors are contacted. This book project was preceded by a number of conferences on the overall theme of identity in the “region” of the Western Balkans. These conferences were held between 2016 and 2018 and were jointly hosted by the Andrásy University Budapest and the Centre for European Neighborhood Studies at the Central European University.

The conference series and the book project were the brainchild of Hana Semanić, who until recently worked for the Centre for European Neighborhood Studies. Without her ideas and initiatives this book would not have happened. Our special thanks go to Hana for her substantial work and involvement in the project.

The publication of the book is part of the project “Understanding Identities and Regions – Perspectives on V4 and WB” (Project No. 21820078), financed by the International Visegrad Fund (IVF), which aimed at bringing researchers together from two European regions to address the issue of identity on the regional and national level. We are grateful to the IVF for the funding and the assistance throughout the duration of the project. We also wish to thank the international Network for Political Communication (netPOL) for providing financial support for staff costs.

Two upstream workshops were organised: the first workshop and the kick-off meeting took place at the Institute for European Studies of the Jagiellonian University Krakow in November 2018. The second workshop was hosted by the Faculty of Political Sciences of the University of Sarajevo in May 2019. We express our thanks to both institutions for coordinating the events. Additionally, we are grateful for the active participation of the other members of the project consortium, i.e. Central European University, Metropolitan University Prague and the University of Wrocław.

We wish to thank Dr Krisztina Slachta from the Project Office of the Andrásy University Budapest for her support in ensuring a timely and successful project implementation. The work would have not been so smooth without her personal engagement and her accurate management of the project.

Finally, the editors' special thanks go to Bénédicte Williams for proofreading this book and for her advice on all the issues related to this publication. We truly appreciate her endurance in staying with us until the very last corrections.

The editors,
